In today's America, censorship and cancel culture are eroding the basic foundations of our republic. Viewpoints that comply with the mainstream narrative are allowed to spread—even if they are based on untrue information—while all other voices are shut out.

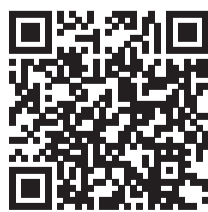

But you can turn things around by sharing the facts with the people you know, and helping spread the word about The Epoch Times and our website.

Every share is a blow against censorship and a stand for a free press and free expression.

Share the quick facts below with at least 10 friends or family through a phone call, email, text message, or even on social media.

- TheEpochTimes.com is the most-visited website among all non-corporate media with traditional American values*
- Its tagline is Truth and Tradition
- It is free from any influence by any political organizations, governments, or businesses.
- The Epoch Times is the fastest-growing media in the United States and reports the facts without fear or favor.
