

Truth Can Make Difference

Joshua Philipp
Senior Investigative Reporter

Dear Epoch VIP,

Thanks for subscribing to The Epoch Times. In these pages, you'll find news and information that you're unlikely to see in the legacy media.

As a senior investigative reporter at The Epoch Times and host of our show “Crossroads,” part of my work at The Epoch Times is to help ensure this.

By its nature, investigative journalism isn't easy work. No matter which topic we may be digging into, it seems there's always someone who doesn't want certain facts getting out—and it's fairly common to see push-back or attempts at censorship. This is especially true when the stories involve the Chinese Communist Party.

For more than a decade, I've been tracking, researching, and exposing the Chinese Communist Party's programs to subvert politics and institutions in the United States and in other countries, and to expose its programs to wage an unseen war using everything from organized crime to economic warfare. I've exposed its programs behind taking over Hollywood for “culture warfare,” its methods of supplying drug cartels with chemicals and weapons to undermine the United States, its systems to compromise the integrity of politicians and academics, and many other crucial issues. The big picture of these operations isn't pretty, but I've hoped—and have seen—through all these years that truth can make a difference.

Many trusted figures and institutions in the United States have folded to pressure from the Chinese Communist Party's programs of subversion—from news outlets, to heads of multinational corporations, to Hollywood elites, to government officials. The Chinese regime wants them to fall in line with its propaganda and its interests, and it has leveraged profits and personal interests to exert pressure.

You can rest assured that The Epoch Times will never follow them. Our goal is to provide honest journalism at a time when it's very much needed—and to expose the unseen hands of the Chinese regime that would try to spread its system abroad. Though we face pressure, threats, and censorship, you can rest assured that we will never back down.

In Truth and Tradition,

Joshua Philipp
The Epoch Times

THE EPOCH
TIMES